

universal declaration of human rights

The United Nations General Assembly adopted resolution 217A(III) on December 10, 1948 and promulgated it.

On December 10, 1948, the United Nations General Assembly adopted and promulgated the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. this one

After the historic Declaration was promulgated, the General Assembly requested all Member States to publicize it widely and

And "regardless of the political status of the country or territory, mainly in schools and other educational institutions at all levels Constructed to communicate, display, read and elaborate. " The full text of the "Declaration" is as follows:

Preface

Whereas respect for the inherent dignity and the equal and inalienable rights of all members of the human family

Recognition is the foundation of freedom, justice and peace in the world.

Whereas the disregard for and contempt for human rights has developed into barbaric atrocities that taint humanity conscience, and a world where everyone enjoys freedom of speech and belief and freedom from fear and want

The advent of has been declared as the highest wish of ordinary people,

Since humanity is not forced to resort to desperate measures to rebel against tyranny and oppression, it is necessary

To ensure that human rights are protected by the rule of law,

In view of the need to promote the development of friendly relations among nations,

Whereas the peoples of the United Nations countries have reaffirmed in the Charter of the United Nations their commitment to fundamental human rights human rights, the dignity and worth of the human person and the equal rights of men and women, and is determined to promote greater freedom

Due to the social progress and improvement of living standards,

Whereas Member States have pledged to cooperate with the United Nations to promote the protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms universal respect and observance,

Whereas universal knowledge of these rights and freedoms is essential to the full realization of this vow of great importance,

So now, the General Assembly, promulgates this Universal Declaration of Human Rights, common standards towards which every individual and social institution shall constantly bear in mind this Declaration,

Strives to promote respect for rights and freedoms through teaching and education and through national and international progressive international measures to ensure that these rights and freedoms are shared among the people of Member States themselves and within their jurisdictions universally and effectively recognized and observed by the people of the Territories;

Article 1

All people are born free and equal in dignity and rights. They are endowed with reason and conscience, and

Treat each other in a spirit of brotherly relationship.

Article 2

Everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth in this Declaration, without distinction as to race, colour, gender, language, religion, political or other opinions, national or social origin, property, origin

any distinction such as birth or other status.

and shall not be liable for any political, administrative or international consequences of the country or territory to which a person belongs status, whether the territory is an independent territory, a trust territory, a non-autonomous territory

administrative territory or in any other situation where sovereignty is limited.

Article 3

Everyone has the right to life, liberty and security of person.

Article 4

No one shall be held in slavery or servitude; all forms of slavery and the slave trade shall should be banned.

Article 5

No one may be subjected to torture or cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or penalty.

Article 6

Everyone has the right everywhere to be recognized as a person before the law.

Article 7

All persons are equal before the law and are entitled to equal protection of the law without any discrimination. people

Everyone has the right to equal protection against any act of discrimination and incitement contrary to this Declaration any act of such discrimination.

Article 8

Anyone whose basic rights granted by the constitution or law are infringed shall have the right to have a qualified national courts to provide effective remedies for such violations.

Article 9

No one may be arbitrarily arrested, detained or deported.

Article 10

Everyone is entitled to a fair and impartial hearing by an independent and impartial tribunal to determine his rights and obligations and to determine any criminal charges brought against him control.

Article 11

- (1) Any person charged with a criminal offense shall

A person has the right to be presumed innocent until a trial is held and his guilt is proven in accordance with the law.

- (ii) Any act or omission of any person which, at the time it occurred, was unlawful under national or international law;

A person who does not constitute a criminal offense under any law shall not be convicted of a criminal offence. The penalty shall not be more severe than

The legal provisions that apply when a crime is committed.

Article 12

No one shall be subject to arbitrary interference with his private life, family, home and correspondence, and his honor and reputation shall not be interfered with at will.

Reputation shall not be attacked. Everyone has the right to the protection of the law against such interference or attack hit.

Article 13

- (1) Everyone has the right to freedom of movement and residence within the borders of each country.
- (ii) Everyone has the right to leave any country, including his own, and to return to his nation.

Article 14

- (1) Everyone has the right to seek and enjoy asylum in other countries from persecution.
- (ii) In cases of genuine non-political crimes or violations of the purposes and principles of the United Nations

This right may not be invoked if the person is prosecuted for his conduct.

Article 15

- (1) Everyone has the right to a nationality.
- (ii) No one may be arbitrarily deprived of his or her nationality, nor shall his or her right to change his or her nationality be denied profit.

Article 16

- (1) Adult men and women have the right to marry and grow up without any restrictions on race, nationality or religion.

Establish a family. In marriage, during marriage and when dissolving the engagement, they should equal rights.

- (ii) Marriage may be entered into only with the free and full consent of both men and women.
- (iii) The family is a natural and basic social unit and should be protected by society and the state.

protect.

Article 17

- (1) Everyone may have separate ownership of property as well as joint ownership with others.
- (ii) No one may be arbitrarily deprived of his or her property.

Article 18

Everyone has the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion; this right includes the right to change his religion or freedom of belief, and to practice doctrine, practice, ritual, individually or collectively, publicly or privately

The prayers and precepts signify freedom of his religion or belief.

Article 19

Everyone has the right to freedom of opinion and expression; this right includes holding opinions without Freedom from interference, and to seek, receive and impart information through any media and regardless of frontiers and freedom of thought.

Article 20

- (1) Everyone has the right to freedom of peaceful assembly and association.
- (ii) No one may be forced to belong to a group.

Article 21

- (1) Everyone has the right to take part in the governance of his country, directly or through freely chosen representatives.
- (ii) The right of everyone to have equal opportunity to participate in the public service of his or her country.
- (iii) The will of the people is the basis of government power; this will should be expressed regularly and truly shall be expressed in fair elections, which shall be based on universal and equal suffrage and shall be

A secret ballot or equivalent free voting procedure shall be conducted.

Article 22

Everyone, as a member of society, is entitled to social security and is entitled to his personal

Economic, social and cultural rights necessary for the free development of dignity and personality

This realization is achieved through national efforts and international cooperation and in accordance with the organizations and resource situation.

Article 23

- (1) Everyone has the right to work, free choice of occupation, and fair and suitable working conditions.

and enjoy protection against unemployment.

- (ii) Everyone has the right to equal pay for equal work without any discrimination.
- (iii) Everyone who works has the right to fair and appropriate remuneration, ensuring that he

People and their families have living conditions that are suitable for human beings, supplemented by other means when necessary of social security.

- (4) Everyone has the right to organize and join a trade union to safeguard his or her interests.

Article 24

Everyone has the right to rest and leisure, including reasonable limits on working hours and regular wages

The right to paid leave.

Article 25

- (i) Everyone has the right to a life adequate for the health and welfare of himself and of his dependents standard of living, including food, clothing, housing, medical care and necessary social services;

to unemployment, illness, disability, widowhood, old age or other circumstances beyond our control

When a person loses the ability to earn a living, he or she has the right to enjoy protection.

- (ii) Mothers and children have the right to special care and assistance. All children, regardless of legitimate birth or illegitimate, should enjoy the same social protection.

Article 26

- (1) Everyone has the right to education, and education should be free, at least at the primary and basic levels

The stages should be like this. Primary education should be compulsory. Technical and vocational education should be made universal Established everywhere. Higher education should be equally open to all on the basis of merit.

- (ii) The purpose of education is the full development of the human personality and the strengthening of awareness of human rights and fundamental freedoms.

By respect. Education should promote understanding among nations, races or religious groups understanding, tolerance and friendship, and should promote the activities of the United Nations in the maintenance of peace.

- (iii) Parents have the right to prioritize the type of education their children should receive.

Article 27

- (1) Everyone has the right to freely participate in the cultural life of society, enjoy art, and share science

Progress and the benefits it generates.

- (ii) Everyone shall have

Their spiritual and material interests have the right to enjoy protection.

Article 28

Everyone has the right to demand a social and international order in which the principles set out in this Declaration rights and freedoms can be fully realized.

Article 29

• (1) Everyone has obligations to society, for only in society can his individuality be free and fully developed.

- (ii) In the exercise of his rights and freedoms, everyone shall be subject only to the restrictions determined by law.

The sole purpose of imposing such restrictions is to ensure due respect for the rights and freedoms of others.

Recognize and respect some, and adapt to morality and public order in a democratic society and legitimate needs for the general welfare.

- (iii) These rights and freedoms may in no case be exercised contrary to the provisions of the Union purposes and principles of the United Nations.

Article 30

Nothing in this declaration shall be construed as tacitly endorsing the right of any country, group or individual to Any activity or behavior aimed at undermining any of the rights and freedoms set out in this Declaration.