

UDHR - Hindi

Universal Declaration of Human Rights On December 10, 1948, the General Assembly of the United Nations adopted the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

Ratified and declared. Its full text is given in the following pages. Only after this historic work

The Assembly appealed to all Member States to publicize this declaration and Without regard to discrimination based on political status, especially in schools and other educational institutions

Make arrangements for its publicity, display, reading and interpretation.

The official text of this Declaration is available in the following five languages of the United Nations: English, Chinese, French, Russian

And Spanish. The translation text given here is approved by the Government of India.

Preface

Since the innate dignity and equal and inalienable rights of all members of the human family are

Peace is the foundation of peace, justice and continuity,

Since neglect and hatred towards human rights resulted in such barbaric acts that destroyed the human soul.

were tortured, because the establishment of a world order (in which people were freed from speech and

Freedom of religion and freedom from fear and want was declared the highest aspiration for the common people.

Has gone,

Because if people are to revolt against unjust rule and oppression – that is the last resort.

Understanding - If you do not want to be forced, then protect human rights by making rules through law.

is mandatory,

Since it is necessary to maintain friendly relations between nations,

Whereas the peoples of the Member States of the United Nations have expressed their belief in fundamental human rights, the dignity of the human person and

Have expressed in the Charter our belief in the merits and equal rights of women and this

Have decided that social progress and a better standard of living will be achieved under greater freedom.

was done,

WHEREAS the Member States have pledged to cooperate with the United Nations in promoting human rights and fundamental will promote universal respect for freedoms,

Since in order to fully fulfill this pledge, these rights and freedoms must be

It is most important to understand. now therefore,

General Assembly

declares that

This Universal Declaration of Human Rights is the common success of all countries and all people. its purpose

It is that every individual and every part of society should continue to teach with this declaration in mind.

And through education it will try to awaken a feeling of respect for these rights and freedoms,

And progressively such national and international measures should be taken which will help the people of the member countries and their

The people of the occupied territories should give universal and effective acceptance of these rights and ensure that they are followed.

|

All human beings are blessed with innate dignity and equality in respect of dignity and rights. they have intelligence

And they have the gift of conscience and they should behave with each other in a spirit of brotherhood.

Everyone has the right to enjoy all the rights and freedoms enshrined in this Declaration and

Caste, race, sex, language, religion, politics or other system of thought, birth in a particular country or society,

There will be no consideration of discrimination on the basis of property or any other type of dignity etc.

Additionally, whether any country or territory is sovereign, protected, or has no sovereignty or limited sovereignty

-2-

UDHR - Hindi

Depending on the political, regional or international situation of that country or region, the residents of that

No difference will be made per person.

Article 3.

Every person has the right to life, liberty and personal security.

No one shall be held in slavery or servitude, the practice of slavery and the slave trade in all its forms

Will be prohibited in all forms.

No one shall be subjected to physical torture or any cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment.

There will be behavior.

Everyone has the right to recognition as a person before the law everywhere.

Everyone is equal in the eyes of law and everyone is entitled to equal legal protection without any discrimination. If Any discrimination made in violation of this declaration shall not be tolerated in any way.

If someone is provoked, everyone has the right to equal protection against him.

All are required to take appropriate action against acts that infringe upon the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution or the law.

Entitled to effective assistance from national courts.

No one shall be arbitrarily arrested, detained or deported.

All persons have full and equal rights in the determination of their rights and duties and

His trial in any criminal case charged against him shall be fair and public, impartial and

By an impartial court. (1) Every person accused of a punishable offense shall be deemed to be innocent unless till he is tried in accordance with the law in an open court, where he has all the necessary facilities for his defence.

Accordingly, he was not proven guilty. (2) No person shall, by reason of any such act or omission, be guilty of any punishable offence.

Which is not considered a punishable offense according to the then prevailing national or international law.

Nor can a punishment be more severe than that which would have been awarded at the time when the person was punishable.

The crime was committed.

No person shall be subjected to arbitrary interference with his privacy, family, home or correspondence, nor

There may be some attack on someone's honor and reputation. against such interference or interference

There is a right to legal defence.

P

UDHR - Hindi

Article 13.

(1) Everyone has the right to free movement, movement and residence within the borders of every country.

(2) Every person shall have the right to leave any country, his own or a foreign country, and to return to his own country.

Have the right. (1) Everyone has the right to seek refuge and sojourn in other countries from persecution. (2) The benefit of this power shall not be available in cases which actually relate to non-political offences.

or which are contrary to the purposes and principles of the United Nations. (1) Every person has the right to citizenship of any particular nation. (2) No one shall be arbitrarily deprived of or deprived of the citizenship of his country;

You will not be refused permission to make any change. (1) Adult males and females are allowed to marry each other without any hindrance of caste, nationality or religion and

Have the right to establish a family. They need to know about marriage, marital life and divorce.

Regarding equal rights. (2) Marriage can take place only upon the complete and continuous consent of the husband and wife intending to marry. (3) Family is the natural and basic collective unit of the society and it is protected by the society and the state.

Have the right to protection. (1) Every person has the right to hold counsel, both alone and in association with others. (2) No one shall be arbitrarily deprived of his consent.

Every person has the right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion. under this right

To change religion or belief, whether alone or in association with others, whether in public or in private

There is freedom to express one's religion or belief through education, action, worship and behaviour.

Every person has the right to freedom of thought and expression. without interference within

To hold any opinion and to express it to anyone through any medium and regardless of boundaries.

It includes exploration, acceptance and impartation of understanding and perception. (1) Every person has the right to assemble peacefully or to form a committee. (2) No one can be forced to become a member of any organization. (1) Every person shall have the right to govern his country, either directly or through continuously elected representatives.

Have the right to participate. (2) Every person has equal right to get government jobs in his country. (3) The basis of the government's power will be the will of the people. Manifestation of this desire from time to time and

It will happen through real elections. These elections shall be by universal and equal suffrage and by secret ballot or

UDHR - Hindi

Km and others will be conducted through similar continuous voting method.

Article 22.

As a member of society, every person has the right to social security and every person

For that continuous development and glory of one's personality - which is possible through national efforts or international cooperation and every

Be compatible with the organization and resources of the state—essentially economic, social, and cultural

There is a right to receive rights. (1) Every person has the right to work, to choose employment as per his wish and to have fair and convenient employment opportunities.

There is a right to achieve good conditions and to be protected from unemployment. (2) Every person has the right to equal wages for equal work without any discrimination. (3) Every person who works has the right to just and favorable wages,

So that he can arrange such a livelihood for himself and his family, which is human dignity.

Should be eligible and if there is a need, it can be fulfilled through other types of social protection. (4) Every person has the right to form and participate in trade unions for the protection of his interests.

|

Every person has the right to rest and leisure. Under this, proper limitation of working hours

And holidays are included along with wages from time to time. (1) Everyone has the right to a standard of living sufficient for the health of himself and his family.

And there should be enough for welfare. This includes food, clothing, shelter, medical facilities and

Essential social services are included. Everyone should be protected in case of unemployment, illness, disability, widowhood, old age or any other

The right to security in the absence of means of livelihood in circumstances beyond one's control.

(2) There is a provision for special assistance and facilities to the father and mother. Every child should have a married mother

Whether born out of wedlock or unmarried, he will get equal social protection. (1) Every person has the right to education. Education at least in the primary and basic stages

Will be free. Elementary education will be compulsory. Technical, mechanical and vocational education in general and higher education will be equally available to all on the basis of merit. (2) The aim of education shall be the full development of the human personality and the realization of human rights and fundamental human rights.

Strengthen respect for each other. Mutual goodwill and tolerance between nations, castes or religious groups through education.

And the ministry will be developed and put forward to the efforts of the United Nations to maintain peace. (3) Parents have the first right to choose what type of education

Will be given to their children. (1) Every person has the right to continuously participate in the cultural life of society, to enjoy the arts,

And there is a hook to participate in scientific advancement and its facilities. (2) Every person shall be entitled to enjoy the moral and economic benefits arising from any scientific, literary or artistic work.

He has the right to protect the interests of which he is the author.

–5UDHR -Hindi

Article 28.

Everyone has the right to enjoy a social and international order in which the provisions of this Declaration

The mentioned rights and freedoms can be fully achieved.

Article 29.

(1) Every person has a duty towards the society in which he lives for the continued and complete development of his personality.

Development is possible. (2) In the exercise of his rights and privileges each person shall be bound only by such limitations as may be

Which will be determined by law and whose sole purpose will be to protect the rights and continuity of others.

Will get respect and proper acceptance and which are needed in a democratic society.

The proper requirements of morality, public order and general welfare have to be met. (3) These rights and freedoms shall not be exercised in any way inconsistent with the principles and purposes of the United Nations.

Will not be opposed.

Nothing contained in this declaration should be construed so as to imply that any

The right of a state, group, or individual to engage in any activity or to do any act that is

The objective is to destroy any of the rights and continuities mentioned here.